

Notes

1
The Shine Homepage is the primary entry point and should contain content to facilitate a brief introduction to Shine with a general overview of the program with a link to learn more details about Shine. An introduction to the Mobile Kit with a link to learn more, an introduction to the Shine Workshop with a link to learn more, examples of Shine projects and a contact form for convenience.

2
The About Shine page should contain all pertinent information regarding Shine at Virginia Mason including an introduction to Shine, it's roots, how VM staff benefit from Shine, a thorough introduction and breakdown of the 6 Steps of the Shine Pathway, and an FAQ relevant to general Shine questions.

3
The Shine Workshops page should contain all pertinent information regarding Shine Workshops including the purpose and goals, general process, workshop agendas and expected activities, a list of upcoming workshops with the ability to sign up for attendance, as well as an FAQ specific to the Workshops.

3a
The Workshop Registration page is not included in the wireframes as the concept is beyond project scope. However, the research clearly indicates that Shine Workshops would benefit from a centralized workshop management platform allowing registration akin to an event planner. Many off the shelf solutions exist that could be easily integrated into the Shine website.

4
The Shine Mobile Kit page should contain all pertinent information regarding the Shine Mobile Kit including the purpose and goals, general process, components of the kit, and an FAQ specific to the Mobile Kit. There should be emphasis on the ease of use and convenience. Ideally, a link to a reservation page is available.

4a
The Mobile Kit Registration page is not included in the wireframes as the concept is beyond project scope. Similarly to Workshop registration, we believe a usage and maintenance of the new Shine Mobile Kit would benefit from a centralized reservation and tracking system. Many off the shelf solutions exist that could be easily integrated into the Shine website.

5
The About KPO page should contain pertinent information regarding KPO staff and functions, especially as pertaining to Shine. This could include a brief history as well as brief team member profiles. Ideally KPO staff photos are included as this would increase visibility around Virginia Mason.

6
The Contact Us page should include a convenient contact form with supplementary contact information such as KPO address, and a general KPO phone number and email address. The contact form should always validate the information upon submission alerting the user appropriately. A thank you page or modal should be used to communicate a successful submission.

7
The Projects Dashboard page is the first dashboard among a nested set of dashboards that traverse all points of the Shine Pathway. Once signed in, the team member is able to view a dynamic list of active projects. Admins see all active projects while team members see only projects they belong to. The dashboard includes an activity feed across all projects and a dynamic menu linking to utility pages contained in 7a. From this page, users are able to enter a specific project dashboard.

7a
7a is a generalized collection of useful utilities available to the user at every screen including a message center, team management, file storage, and contacts. The breadth of content for each of these utilities is bound to the scope of the calling dashboard. For example, while the message center from the Projects Dashboard will contain messages from all projects, accessing the center from the Task Dashboard will show only those that are task relevant.

7b
The Project Dashboard page is the second dashboard among a nested set of dashboards that traverse all points of the Shine Pathway. Once signed in, the team member is able to view a dynamic list of steps pertaining to the selected project. The dashboard includes an activity feed across all steps and a dynamic menu linking to utility pages contained in 7a. From this page, users are able to enter a specific step dashboard.

7c
The Step Dashboard page is the third dashboard among a nested set of dashboards that traverse all points of the Shine Pathway. Once signed in, the team member is able to view a dynamic list of tasks pertaining to the selected step. The dashboard includes an activity feed across all tasks and a dynamic menu linking to utility pages contained in 7a. From this page, users are able to enter a specific task dashboard.

7d
The Task Dashboard page is the fourth and final dashboard among a nested set of dashboards. Once signed in, the team member is able to view a dynamic list of sub-tasks pertaining to the current task of the current step of the current project. The dashboard includes an activity feed across all sub-tasks and a dynamic menu linking to utility pages contained in 7a. From this page, users are able to complete forms, upload documents, create notes, and receive relevant guidance.

8
The Sign up or Sign In page is gatekeeper to the Shine Portal and related functionality. The ability to sign in is key to the dynamic nature of the website as outlined here. Without such functionality, the frontend of the site will likely remain the same, while the backend would be limited to functionality akin to a wiki.
